

ABSTRACT

A method and an arrangement for testing video-technological devices provides for a test signal to be generated in which the hue and the colour saturation are altered periodically.